

SCIO Research testing of EarthCalm Resonator Pendant

by Carmen Hironimus, CBT, September 2009

SCIO uses biofeedback to test over 9000 frequencies associated with the human body and can determine the level of energy, amount of chemical imbalance and changes due to environmental influences.

This study showed the Resonator significantly improved the energy flow in a majority of the 22 meridians tested in all subjects. This improvement lends striking support to the claim that EarthCalm products release the body's meridian system, which allows the body to heal itself of chronic stress disorders.

Summary:

Numerous studies have shown that EMR in our environment has a detrimental impact on health. Using SCIO technology, a study was conducted to determine the impact of the galaxy resonator pendant on stress responses in the human body. This study showed the resonator significantly improved the energy flow in a majority of the 22 meridians tested in all subjects. This improvement lends striking support to the claim that EarthCalm products release the body's meridian system, which allows the body to heal itself of chronic stress disorders.

Methodology:

A research project using the SCIO Biofeedback machine was conducted by Carmen Hironimus who is a Certified Biofeedback Technician. The SCIO is a sophisticated biofeedback system, which is designed for stress detection and stress reduction. The device gathers bio-energetic data from the body via fifty-five parameters simultaneously. This happens at biological speed, which is 1/100th second for each stimulus. This means that thousands of items can be screened for reaction from the body in a few minutes.

Five subjects were recruited. Recruitment criteria required that the test subjects had standard exposure to the EMF environment and no attempt was made to alter the EMF environment at the test site.

All test clients were given a 3-minute test exposing each client to approximately 10000 energetic signatures and recording their reactions. Stressed areas are determined by numbers that are below or above standards. In regular sessions these numbers, plus the reaction to 10000 items in the matrix, are indicators used to educate the body to return to standard values by retraining the body to the corrected frequencies.

Five participants were evaluated, ranging in age from 23 years to 65 years with 42 as the median age. 2 of the participants were male and 3 were female.

Results and Discussion:

Brain wave pattern reactions in all 5 people tested show improvement when tested wearing the Earthcalm Resonator. Improvement of wave pattern is determined by a number that indicates deviation from "Normal." The fact that all 5 clients showed improvement would indicate statistical significance.

Most striking is that with regard to the meridians, 4 out of 5 clients showed great improvement in 9 to 12 meridians (out of 22 total). The one individual that did not show improvement is someone who has been diagnosed by medical professionals with autoimmune disorder. This person complained that the energy of the resonator was "too strong". After increasing the time wearing the Earthcalm resonator and being tested a third time, there was an improvement in 6 of the meridians while the first time there was. The one client who did not immediately show stress reduction had a diagnosis of autoimmune disorder, thus confirming the EarthCalm recommendation that clients who are immune deficient use the 3 step System for a more gradual introduction of the EarthCalm products. The EarthCalm Resonator is equal in strength to the EarthCalm Home EMF Protection System, which provides the same degree of EMF protection to everyone in the home.

EMF product research and field testing are ongoing as we respond to customers experience and needs and new technologies are developed.